Sheriff Adam's proposed jail health clinic back in business

Attorney General's office
rescinds its previous opinion

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors on Monday announced that the Mississippi Attorney General's Office withdrew its original opinion on the authority of Hancock County Sheriff Ricky Adam and the board of supervisors to provide health care services.

Back in April, the board voted to terminate the contract with Quality Correction Health Care, Inc. and approved the sheriff's recommendation of Casey Favre as full-time director of health services and nurse practitioner with an annual salary of $115,000; Christina Herman as full-time medical services coordinator at the rate of $17 per hour; and Theresa Thurman as full-time registered nurse at the rate of $20.50 per hour.

The motions were also contingent on receipt of an opinion from the attorney general's office.

At the May 7th supervisors' meeting, attorney Haley Broom, who spoke on the sheriff's behalf, told the board it would be beneficial to seek a supplemental opinion regarding the sheriff's authority to hire and fire physicians, nurse practitioners and other nurses.

She said it wasn't "specifically answered," by the AG's office, but rather referenced the board's authority to do so.

Board attorney Gary Yarborough said at the May 7 meeting that Favre, Herman and Thurman had already started working prior to the AG's opinion dated April 27.

On May 7, the board approved a motion to stop the three employees from working until the board received clarification from the AG's office.

Hancock County Board of Supervisors President Blaine LaFontaine said Monday that – according to a letter the county received Friday afternoon from the AG's office – the previous opinion has now been deleted from the AG's website, for basically two reasons.

Bay Rotarians enjoy three-week stay in New Zealand

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

Cindy Lowe and Darlene Underwood, both members of the Rotary Club of Bay St. Louis, recently returned from a three-week stay in New Zealand organized through Rotary International.

"I had the best time," Lowe said. "It was super, super charming. Every place we went was very lush."

They toured beautiful cities, pristine beaches, lush rain forests, mountain paths and caves, state-of-the-art dairy farms, kiwi factories and more.

The highlight for Lowe was getting to walk out on the top of New Zealand's answer to the Space Needle, the Sky Tower in Auckland.

Lowe was able to go out on top and walk around on a four-foot wide parapet -- 723 feet above the ground. "It was amazing," she said.

In addition to Lowe and Underwood, 10 other members of Rotary District 6880 went to New Zealand, including members from New Orleans, Slidell and LaPlace Rotary clubs.

"It started about three years ago in our district (6880), but it's very well organized in other parts of the world," Underwood said. "A Rotary district shows an interest in an exchange. The New Zealanders were in our area earlier this year because of Mardi Gras -- they were in New Orleans for three weeks, then came here for a week or so. Cindy and I kept in our houses. They loved Bay St. Louis. In fact, New Orleans was so hectic that they liked having the time here."

"We took them to all the interesting things around here," Lowe said. "We took them to NASA and INFIN-ITY, to Lazy Magnolia, to Hot Sticks Manufacturing, they went to Beauvoir and the Walter Anderson Museum. And of course, they loved it downtown in the Bay. They went shopping."

"It's a wonderful way to showcase your area," Underwood said.

Open to any member of a Rotary Club, international trips are "a terrific opportunity to go to just about anywhere in the world," Lowe said. "Any district that wants to do an exchange with us is welcome."

While in New Zealand, Lowe and Underwood would stay with a host family in one area for a few days, then stay with another, then another.

"The wine was very good, the food was very good, the place was beautiful," Lowe said. "I don't think we had a bad meal or anything else that was not the tip-top of everything."

Martha Butler and King Keith Rubio.

The event actually kicked off Friday, with a dinner hosted by the king and queen. The pirates symbolically "invaded" Old Town Bay St. Louis and "kidnapped" Bay Councilman Gene Hoffman. Festivities for the event included a "Lil' Buccaneers" parade for children; costume contests for all ages; a kids' zone with bounce houses and putt-putt golf; a pub crawl and scavenger hunt; live music; and the Pirate Day parade.

The Pirates were also treated to a two-hour cruise, courtesy of the Betsy Ann river boat.

The Seahorse krewe wrapped up Saturday's events with a fireworks display over the Bay St. Louis Municipal Harbor.

The event is an annual fundraiser for the Mystic Krewe of the Seahorse, a volunteer organization that supports economic development in downtown Bay St. Louis. For more, go to mkotsh.com or check out the Mystic Krewe of Seahorse Facebook page.

Keep your cool, even when it's hot outside

We enjoyed a fairly frigid winter, leading into a pretty tame spring, as well, but I'm afraid with June looming on the horizon, it's about to heat up.

I think we've all been spoiled by air conditioning. When we were growing up, my brothers and I never worried about the sun or the heat, but most of the time, we ran around shirtless during the summer months.

I can still remember when the workers put the very first coat of asphalt surface on our block at Nicholson Avenue and Jeff Davis.

The asphalt they put down in those days was not nearly as smooth as it is today, but it really got hot in the summer time and my brothers and I could walk on it barefooted.

We didn't have electricity in our house until I was in about the second grade, so our version of "air conditioning" at night was to just open all the windows.

That was the same kind of air conditioning they had at the St. Stanislaus Back School, too. In the winter, we had a large heater in our home. We also had one in our school's large classroom.

I remember we had electricity at the school early on because it was close to the power plant in Bay St. Louis. In those days, it was next to the ice house on Blaize Ave.

My mother and grandmother tried for years to get electricity to our home on Jeff Davis, since there was already power on Nicholson Avenue; and there were three residences on the Bay St. Louis side of Nicholson.

If you've never had to use kerosene oil lamps for heat at night, you wouldn't understand what difference that made for us when we finally did get it.

Today, you might think had been deprived, but we survived the ordeal and were actually "uptown" when we got a large window fan in order to get us some cool air at night. That was right before World War II.

My brother Raymond and I still talk about our experiences as kids when we would cut down 50-foot pine trees for firewood.

That was a rough job, but it was for our survival – the kitchen stove had to be going at least three times a day, even in the hottest part of summer.

But you know, we were not the only kids in Hancock County or the state of Mississippi that had to cut their own wood in order to survive.

I still hear people tell me about how they, too, had to work as children so their families could survive, particularly those raised on a family farms.

Today's youth really don't know what the kids of my generation had to go through in order to survive.

What is your piece of paradise here?

Due to ministry, rarely have I had an opportunity to view the Kentucky Derby Run For The Roses, aka "The most exciting two minutes in sports." One might quibble over one or the other heavyweight boxing match by comparison. In any case, I don't like watching horses or cars race. Secretariat (Big Red), the huge 1,155-pound chestnut, whose powerful muscles enabled him to sprint for the full length of a race, was the exception for me and numerous other indifferent folks. Big Red's spirit and exploits hung over the fabled racetrack, in spite of the stimulating win by Justify.

Official bugler Steve Buttlemann sounded the clarion call to the 144th running of the Kentucky Derby. Defying the all-time record downpour that drenched the track, everyone and everything else, over 153,000 paying customers (averaging $75.00 a head) thrilled to – many joining in – the University of Louisville Choir's rendering of My Old Kentucky Home. As the historic music rang throughout Churchill Downs, the roots of my hair tingled. It was then that, observing their happy faces, I realized that, for perhaps most of the folks there, this was their piece of paradise.

One could counter that, surely, those people have other cherished pieces of an earthly paradise in their lives. That is perfectly reasonable and desirable. Indeed, truly blessed, fortunate – whatever you want to call them – are those whose prime piece of paradise is their family. Yes, it can be affirmed that the happiest people in the world are those whose piece of earthly paradise is their soul mate and children.

With wanderlust almost a part of their DNA, being a jetsetter regionally and globally has always been a piece of paradise for many who have no great interest in settling down in a conventional way of life. With more affordable supersonic airliners just a few years away, jetsetters will take delight in having breakfast in Asia, lunch in Europe and dinner in the U.S.A., whether aloft or on the ground.

Plugged into a world of electronic devices such as tablets, e-readers, MP3 players and smartphones that provide apps to open up a world of information, music, movies and other entertainment, Millennials lead the charge into today's electronic version of what they perceive as their piece of paradise.

However, they must be constrained to look deep into their own reaction to and connection to electronic devices that, at best, may deter them from meaningful communication with their family and friends. At worst, those devices become vices that draw users away from practical realities and entice them to harsh addictions.

Although entertainment is an integral part of our lives, we must shun addiction to almost nonstop entertainment on a cell phone, computer, TV, at the cinema, at a sports stadium, at a racetrack, being a nightclubber always out to play on the town or regional circuit, or anything that stifles the pursuit of transcendent values in life.

Notwithstanding, this is their piece of paradise for many a wayfarer down here.

Considered classier for the most part than nightclubbing, being a socialite in a Who's Who world, bathing in the reflected light of celebrities, superstars in sports, business moguls, the megarich or the cream of any so-styled significant profession is the lifelong fascination and dogged pursuit of too many people to count. The Upper Crust, of course, is a bunch of crumbs held together with their own dough.

Hail the greatest Celebrity and Megastar of all time, the apprentice carpenter who had no formal schooling, yet knew more than the top geniuses of all time! Teenagers and music festivals

Every Time I go to a music festival, I figure it's my last one, but somehow I ended up at the Memphis in May music festival two weeks ago.

My role at these festivals is essentially teen chaperone. What is it about teenagers and music festivals? They love them. I liken it to a herd of antelopes with a smart phone stuck on their horn.

I do like checking out the scene, especially if I have never been before. The Memphis festival was at the Tom Lee Park right along the Mississippi River. Although I have lived in Mississippi all my life, I have never really spent a couple of days hanging out on the banks of this mighty river. That was attractive.

Wife Ginny got a reasonably priced room at the Residence Inn about a 10-minute walk to the festival along the pedestrian-only Main Street. That was another incentive.

Still, I should have done my research. I was amazed to learn you couldn't bring folding chairs. Say what? They expect everyone to stand for eight hours? Turns out, they ban chairs so they can charge twice as much for VIP areas where you can sit. That's a big negative.

We were half way to Memphis when daughter Ruth informs me the main act she wanted to hear started late on Sunday. Thus ensued a running battle about departure time. Again, always better to do your research up front.

I did look into the weather, which was supposed to be dry and pleasant. The minute we got there one nasty thundercloud drenched the park, leaving it a wet muddy mess. When the rain cleared up, the sun came out and the temperature exceeded the forecast by a good seven degrees.

The setting itself was quite nice. The park is beautiful with scenic views of the river all along its length. There were four main stages and a couple of smaller ones. Total attendance was around 100,000.

The music was all genres, but mainly contemporary. There was soul, blues, country, rock and fusion-type contemporary pop.

Years ago, I bought some very discrete flesh colored earplugs but of course I left them at home. Earplugs allow you to actually understand the lyrics above the distortion caused by too much volume.

Generally, volume control was reasonable. The number one problem at these things is deaf sound-

Music

men who crank the music up thinking everyone is as deaf as they are, but, of course, most of us haven't had our ears stretched out by hundreds of concerts.

The base drum volume was the worst. You could actually feel the thumps on your chest, making it hard to hear the more complex bass guitar lines.

Most of the acts I had never heard of, which isn't saying much. I haven't been enamored much with modern music over the last decade or two. It is way too formulaic, boring and unoriginal. And that was on full display.

A couple of the acts were just horrible. Two female acts dressed in outlandish costumes and bounced around the stage with enthusiasm, but I could hold a better tune.

It wasn't just me being a critic. Wife Ginny, who impressively still gets excited about new music, turned to me during one of the shows and said, "The band's okay, but they need to fire the lead singer tomorrow."

Most annoying were the little speeches they made between the songs, often filled with expletives and life advice that was either decadently bad or hopelessly trite. Shut up and sing! Keep the verbiage to introducing the band if you must.

But the worst is the forced singalong when nobody knows the words or wants to singalong. There's nothing quite as embarrassing as a band trying to pump up a hot and tired crowd.

Ginny and I were in the top five percent of age. About half the folks our age were teen chaperones. The other half were died-in-the-wool music lovers who were kicking up their heels and snubbing Father Time. Got to admire those people.

By far, the biggest age group was teenagers, followed by twenty and thirty-somethings.

The crowd definitely looked different from a New Orleans Jazz Fest crowd. Hard to say exactly how, but I can tell a Memphis crowd from a New Orleans crowd. They just look different. Slightly different bloodlines.

Wardrobes were pretty drab by music festival standards, although a few people dressed up in funny outfits. Ginny made me wear my last remaining Grateful Dead t-shirt. It was an appropriate one, playing on the Tom Sawyer episode when Tom cons his friends into painting the picket fence for free. Not only did the t-shirt have a Mississippi River theme (Huck Finn) but it was from one of the last Grateful Dead concerts in Memphis. I got 20 compliments on the t-shirt!

I was never a Dead Head, but I did admire their approach to music. It was subtle, complex, creative, and very American and patriotic. Many of their songs were old American standards from a hundred years ago that they resuscitated. How cool and creative was that!

The prevalence of tattoos on young people was disturbing. I remember one young woman who couldn't have been out of her teens, covered in tattoos. I cringe to think what will happen in 20 years when she grows weary of this permanent sign of her youthful impulsiveness. You can change your clothes when they go out of style. A tattoo is forever. What are these people thinking? I guess they aren't.

The big headliner Sunday was Post Malone, a young star who came from nowhere to go double platinum. His story truly is a rags to riches, hopes can come true, type of story. Indeed, he was by far the best. He played some simple, sweet songs.

Then he did his rap stuff. Yuck. Why is it young music stars feel they must have some rap (or is it hip hop) in their repertoire to prove they are cool? It was of course filled with profanity and depravity. It is about the only musical genre I detest. And I felt this way in my youth as well.

It was embarrassing as a parent to see my child listen to this. "Dad, it was just one song." I let her know my profound distaste and she got a mini lecture in the car on the way home. Ruth is a good girl with strong Christian principles, but you cannot insulate your child from the declining culture of our world, especially with today's technology.

You just pray the Holy Spirit protects them.

On a positive note, downtown Memphis is happening! Restaurants galore. People on the streets. Beautiful Main Street is a pedestrian street like they have in Europe. Maybe there is hope for Jackson. Maybe we could make Capitol Street in Jackson like Main Street in Memphis one day.

Jackson used to have the Jubilee Jam music festival. It had a long run but died a few years ago. Jazz Fest in New Orleans is by far better than Memphis in May, but I don't regret going. It was an interesting experience.

That said, a good night listening to a good band at Duling Hall is more my speed.

Spliced somewhere in all this is the perennial pursuit of the American Dream, to which we can add the Asian, European, African Dream, etc., a piece of paradise. In this, our earthly pursuit of a piece of paradise, we have to align our civil identity and property ownership to Philipians 3:20, "Our citizenship is in heaven."

A true piece of paradise, the killer smile of a big baby girl in 2006 as I applied ashes to her forehead on Ash Wednesday at Saint Augustine Church in New Orleans was one of the indelible highlights of my life. Perforce, I had to smile in return.

While driving back to my parish in Prairie View, Texas in 1983 with most of the Sedillo family, we stopped briefly just beyond Houston to buy some snowballs. Slumping in the rear of the station wagon, Anthony slurped his large snowball and asked, "Mama, are we in heaven?" Yes, a piece of paradise can be a moment frozen in time under widely varying circumstances tailor-made for individuals. And it is real!

or policies related to any action after the fact," he said. "Two, they also said that the board of supervisors can't ask opinions related to other public offices or officers."

LaFontaine said that since the board's minutes—even though the board hosted a recessed meeting about the matter—did not reflect the board rescinding the hires for the nurses.

LaFontaine said that the board is responsible for contracting physician services for one year and setting the budget related to those services, which the board has already done.

"There's no net change of the $385,000," he said. "That's the only thing, statutorily, we have any clarity on."

The board approved an $18,000 12-month contract with Dr. James Crittenden as physician for inmate health services.

The board had already approved a motion transferring the $385,000 from contracted services for inmates to the creation of health services within the sheriff's budget, LaFontaine said.

"The third part of that basically is now just going back with a motion and second," he said. "One of the things from the response of the new AG's opinion was related to that again, the board of supervisors only have responsibility to contracted services for inmates, which we now have. And we have responsibility for budget. But anything that fits within that budget in the sheriff's department, he basically has the discretion of hiring, just like he does with anything related to deputies."

The board also spread on the minutes a motion to hire Favre, Thurman and Herman for inmate health services.

In other action:

- The board spread a letter on the minutes from the Mississippi State Rating Bureau advising that the Clermont Harbor Lakeshore Fire Protection District is now eligible for seventh class fire rating. Hancock County Emergency Management Agency Director Brian Adam said the district dropped three ratings. A better rating will benefit the residents in that district, LaFontaine said. Adam said that—in the past—the district's problem with receiving a better rating was due to manpower. "Now they have it," Adam said.

- The board approved a motion to send letters to both school districts to discuss looking at resources available to expand the presence of law enforcement officers at the schools.

- The board approved the purchase of three portable pitching mounds for the Hancock County Sports Complex from AllStar Mounds for $5,776.

- The board announced that the Rocky Hill Dedeaux Bridge is now open for public use.

The board accepted the resignation of Myron Webb from the Visit Mississippi Gulf Coast board. LaFontaine said Webb is retiring due to "health" reasons.

- The board authorized drafting an ordinance designating McLeod Park and the area near Jourdan River Steamer as no wake zones.

- The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce has scheduled a Coffee Call with the board of supervisors at the county annex on May 31 at 8 a.m. The event will also feature a question and answer session.

The next board meeting is scheduled for June 4 at 9 a.m.

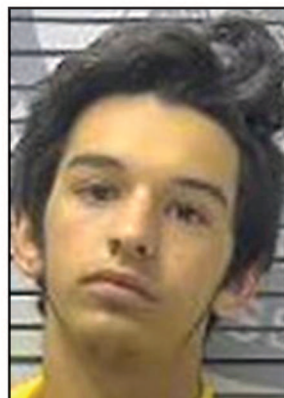

The Blood Center has scheduled a blood drive at the county annex for June 5.

SSC promotes Encrapera to head football coach

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

Saint Stanislaus College did not have to go looking too far for their next head football coach. In fact, the candidate was already on staff. On Monday, May 21st Saint Stanislaus College announced the promotion of Nathan Encrapera to Head Coach to lead the Rock-A-Chaw Football Team beginning with the 2018 season. Coach Encrapera has been a member of the teaching faculty at Saint Stanislaus for two years but has been coaching at the school since 2010. He served as defensive coordinator for the Rocks the past three years. During his coaching tenure at SSC, Coach Encrapera has gained tremendous respect and admiration from his fellow coaches, players and parents in football and baseball according to Principal Gary Blackburn. He stated, "Nate is a great teacher of young men both in and out of the classroom and I have every confidence he will do an outstanding job in this new role."

With the promotion of Encrapera, he becomes the Rocks' third head coach in as many years. He succeeds Jeff Jordan who went 6-6 in 2017 and led SSC to the second round of the Class 4A state playoffs in his lone season at the helm. Bill Conides left SSC in December 2016 after he marshalled the program for three seasons winning two Division 8-4A titles and playing in two Class 4A state finals in 2014-15.

Coach Encrapera is originally from Virginia and received his Bachelor of Arts in Liberal Arts from Thomas Edison State University in Trenton, New Jersey. He has been in coaching since 1998 on the East Coast. He has served as an assistant baseball coach at Grafton High School in Yorktown, VA, from 1998-2000, assistant baseball and football coach at Jamestown High School in Williamsburg, VA, from 2000-05.

He also has previous head coaching experience serving as head baseball coach at Walsingham Academy in Williamsburg, VA in 2006.

Nathan Encrapera

In 2007, Encrapera coached one year at Menchville High School in Newport News, VA. In 2010, Encrapera began his coaching at Saint Stanislaus College as an assistant football coach under former head coach Forrest Williams as a para-professional while also serving his country at the US Naval Construction Battalion base in Gulfport.

He joined the SSC faculty in a full-time role in August 2015 and became the defensive coordinator

Coach Encrapera stated, "I am extremely humbled that the Saint Stanislaus College administration has chosen me from a very talented pool of applicants to be the next head coach. I follow some outstanding head coaches in the tradition that is Saint Stanislaus football. There is a deep rooted tradition within the program and we have had some tremendous success recently. I am looking forward to the challenge that has been presented to me. Our first step will be to bring these young players forward quickly and put them into positions where they can play fast. In many areas, we do not have a lot of experience with snaps but the good thing is our systems will not change.

We need to get stronger in the weightroom and increase our team speed. We, as a staff, are ready to embrace the challenges ahead."

Encrapera will remain as an assistant coach with the varsity baseball program, as well as, continue his teaching duties in the Social Studies department.

Spring football ends a year's coverage

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

With the culmination of spring football practice last week another school year has come and gone. The Class of 2018 is preparing to graduate and the coaches are now going into a mode of summer long off-seasons training with the hope of getting bigger, faster and stronger in preparation for the academic year of 2018-19.

Last Friday, the Saint Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws held their annual Red and Black intersquad scrimmage to close out spring football for the area. Hancock High School was the only program that participated in a spring game.

The Bay High Tigers had a somewhat anxious off-season with head coach Ben Foreman in limbo before the Bay-Waveland School District Board of Trustees put to rest the situation by stating that Foreman would return in 2018 about a month ago.

Once that news hit the wire, Foreman and his staff opened spring with a host of young talent. Foreman commented, "We wanted to see who would compete this spring. We ran the ball hard this spring and put our players through a myriad of tackling drills. Some of the players surprised us with their competitive fire. Sema'

Robertson had a very solid spring along with Chase Lewis and Josh Peters competing to replace Jaylan Wilson at quarterback. We still have a competition there to determine that. We also ended our spring healthy with the return of Cade Compretta who missed all of last season with a shoulder injury. It was real nice to get him back."

Foreman also stated that the offensive line had a decent spring including Bryce Fegurur and Seth Russo whom the Tigers will be looking to for starting positions. Dayton Bourgeois, along with Compretta,

Get out there and enjoy some fishing

Thus far, May has been nothing short of "Speck"-tacular!!! The salinity and temperatures have brought in a huge amount of shrimp, pogies, mullet and speckled trout. With the rising mid day heat, our guides have been leaving the dock as early as possible(0530-ish). With this nice calm weather, have been spending the majority of our time down south in the Louisiana Marsh. Once you get down there, the fishing has been good from Isle Au Pitre all the way to Comfort Island. With this much bait being pushed through, if the fish are not cooperating, or there is a big crowd somewhere, just keep moving.

For those of yall not wanting to make the run, don't worry. The near shore reefs along Hancock and Harrison County(Taylor Reef, Jail House Reef, Bayou Caddy, Pass Rocks)

SHORE THING FISHING REPORT

by Capt. Sonny Schindler have been full of fish. These places tend to draw a crowd on the weekends, so if possible, try and sneak out there on the weekdays. Live shrimp is absolutely lethal at these places.

The diving gulls are by far the easiest method to locate the trout, this time of year. Look for larger shrimp jumping, and try and find the flocks of birds in the shallowest water possible. Shut that big motor off, and use your trolling motor and or the wind/current to drift into the diving birds. We are very fond of using Boat Monkey Popping Corks, 2-3 feet of thirty pound mono leader, a 3/8 ounce jig head, with a good soft plastic attached. Matrix makes great soft plastics, as does H&H. Our guides use 30-40 class spinning reels, like the Okuma Helios, spooled with 20lb braided line, on a medium or medium heavy rod. This combo can cast a country mile, even into the wind.

The main thing is just to take advantage of these good weather days. We are getting into our summer weather pattern, so be on the look out for storms EVERYDAY. If the weather looks bad, either try and wait it out, or just DO NOT GO. The kids will be out of school any day now, so please take the little ones with yall, they are the future. If you don't have a boat, try and jump on with a friend, or better yet hire a charter...

* * * * P l e a s e Remember*

Sheepshead now has a bag and size limit. Anglers may keep 15 sheepshead per day with a 14 inch minimum total length.

This is the time of year we have all been waiting for, so get out there and enjoy it. Please be courteous to other boaters and fisherman. Give plenty of room and try to roll others with your boat wake. If it feels like you are too close to someone, you probably are. Plain and simple, just treat others on the water, the way you would like to be treated. As always, have fun and please be safe.

Spring

looked good on both sides of the ball at fullback and linebacker according to Foreman.

He added, "This summer we are looking to build depth and toughness as we prepare for the fall. Our expectation this fall is to compete for a playoff spot. Our record did not show it last year but we ended the year better than the previous year. Our young players need game experience so we are looking forward to the fall."

The Tigers ended their spring practice with a Blue and a gold scrimmage.

The Hancock Hawks was the only team to take part in a spring game when they traveled to Hattiesburg on Friday, May 11th to take on the Hammond Tornados at USM. The Hawks won the game 16-6 but head coach Neil Lollar just wanted to see his team compete for consistency related to where the team ended their season on late November.

Lollar explained, "Last season, our offense was clicking at the end of the year. Now, we have to replace two backs that amassed over 2,600 yards rushing and four offensive linemen. We have some key components returning in quarterback Caleb Garcia and wide receiver Brooks Rayburn, but we have to fill holes. We will also get Blake Comeaux back this fall at running back."

Lollar went on to praise how the offense began to pick up the grind during spring with new faces like RB Jordan Fushee, WR Chris Bernard and WR Jordan Zulli.

Lollar continued, "On defense, we are in the same boat having to replace glaring holes. We return a solid core with middle linebacker Trenton Ladner. But, we will have a new secondary and a couple of new faces up front. Our staff is confident that we have identified some candidates but we need these guys to get game experience."

The Hawks had an outstanding g 2017 season advancing to the Class 6A quarter-finals before being ousted from the playoffs by the eventual state champion Pearl. But, Hancock will have to grow up in areas quickly to return to that status.

Lollar ended, "I was pleased with our young players getting lost of reps. Also, we remained relatively injury free. This is an exciting time watching them get ready for the fall. Now, we use the summer to get our conditioning down, get stronger and develop team chemistry."

The Pass Christian Pirates are also coming off a trip to the Class 4A state playoffs in 2017. But, they are tasked in 2018 with having to start several young guys.

Pass Christian head coach Casey Wittman commented, "We have a young team in areas starting about five seniors. The offensive line has two returning players in Devin Scandero and Colton Jeanfreau along with a three-year starter at quarterback in Dustin Allison."

The Pirates face the same situation on defense with about 4-5 starters returning including LB Terre Johnson, DL Gordon Ward, DB Josh Tinson and FS Andrew Moffett.

Wittman added, "Despite our lack of game experience, this is an exciting team to watch. We hope to use this summer to build up our depth and strength. We will put in the hard work to get ready for the fall and continue building this program. We have 68 guys on the roster right now which is the most we have had here."

The Saint Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws went through spring without a head coach in title but their newly promoted head coach was with them daily. Newly promoted head coach Nate Encrpera recalled his first spring as head mentor, "This spring we had a number of positions that were very green in terms of playing experience. We will have several first year players this fall. Perhaps the biggest surprise was how quickly the boys picked up everything. The systems are the same but the younger players picked up our terminology quickly. However, having said that, we need to build depth this summer."

Some players who played elsewhere last year are finding themselves in new positions like Delvin Henry at running back. He is physically much bigger than he was last year. He is solid and getting accustomed to a different side of the football."

Joining Henry in seeing different looks will be Thomas Williams at linebacker, Lee Negrotto at tight end and Chris Smith at fullback and linebacker. We will have to play more personnel both ways to increase our depth than we have in the past. Creating depth was certainly a focus this spring."

Encrpera emphasized that summer will be essential to conditioning to avoid injury and weightlifting to get stronger. But, he also stated that the skill players will engage in 7-on-7 on a recurring basis with Gulfport and enter as many 7-on-7 tournaments as possible to help build team chemistry.

He added, "As I said before, we will have several first year players. And, those are some of the ones that surprised us this spring. Alexander Fuller had a solid spring in the defensive backfield while Brandon Bordelon had quality snaps at wide receiver. Both of those guys are basketball players who are coming out for the first time. They are athletes and give us a new dimension. Pat Greer looks to step into his brother's shoes and pick up where he left off but as a different style of player."

With spring training ending another academic year, it is time for athletes to hit the off-season this summer for all types of sports. For football, those of us who live it, breathe it and sleep it, we only have to wait 79 days until our teams sit up for a jamboree to start the 2018 season. Stay cool in the summer heat and see you at the game!

The event is held at Christ Episcopal Church, 912 South Beach Blvd. It is open and free to the public and begins at 4 p.m.

4:00 PM – Performing Artists

Most of the kids performing are going to Peru in July to play three performances with the Cusco Youth Orchestra. These concerts are part of the Cusco Music Festival that happens every year in July. These kids have been working very hard since last March to raise the money for the trip. It's going to be a great experience for them and for the Peruvian kids. We are going to visit the great historic places in the Cusco region including Machu Pichu. Chamber Orchestra is a vital part of the orchestra program at Gulfport High School. The Chamber Orchestra often performs for civic and community groups, as well as traveling internationally. The administration, faculty, and staff of the Gulfport School District take pride in being able to offer a full and varied instrumental music program. We presently offer string orchestra and small ensembles in grades four through twelve. In addition, we will offer full orchestra at the high school level. It is our goal to produce an outstanding orchestra, to develop in each student an appreciation of the art of music as part of general culture, to discover and develop the talents of students in the field of orchestral music, and to develop students' knowledge and skills of listening to orchestra music, as well as reading and performing orchestral music throughout their life.

Dr. Sasha Ferreira began his violin studies in Havana, Cuba. While there, he won first prize for the best interpretation of the Cuban music in the regional and national "Amadeo Roldán" violin competition, the most prestigious Cuban violin competition. He continued his studies at the National Conservatory of Music in Lima, Peru, graduating with honors in 1997. Recently, Sasha finished recording "Cuban Music...with a Violin Touch," his second compact disc as a soloist. As a soloist, Sasha has performed both with piano accompaniment and with orchestras throughout Peru, Venezuela, Brazil, Colombia, and the United States. From 1997 until 2007, Ferreira was a member of the Lima String Quartet. He was also a member of the Lima Philharmonic Orchestra's Soloists. Along with his performance career, he taught for many years at Markham College and the National Conservatory of Music in Lima, Peru. Sasha moved to the United States in 2007 and became an American citizen in May of 2013. He obtained his Master of Music degree in violin performance at the University of Southern Mississippi. In 2012, Sasha earned his Doctoral degree in violin and viola performance from The University of Georgia. Sasha is currently a faculty member of the Winter School of Music at William Carey University in Hattiesburg, Mississippi, and teaches at the Gulfport School District in Gulfport, Mississippi. He regularly performs as a soloist as well as with the Mobile Symphony Orchestra and the Pensacola Symphony Orchestra.

Daniel Martinez began his cello studies at the age of nine in his hometown of San Pedro Sula, Honduras. He continued his studies at the Victoriano Lopez Music School in San Pedro Sula and in 2001 he entered The University of Southern Mississippi on a full scholarship, studying there with Dr. Alexander Russakovsky and serving as principal cellist in the university orchestra. After earning his Bachelor of Music degree in 2006, he accepted a teaching position with the Gulfport School District Strings Program in Gulfport, Mississippi. In 2009, he was honored to take the position of Director of Orchestral Activities with the Gulfport School District. Daniel loves conducting, playing chamber music, and is currently a member of the Mobile, Gulf Coast Symphony, and Pensacola Symphony Orchestras. Since 2014, Mr. Martinez also serves at the music director and principal conductor for the Gulf Coast Symphony Youth Orchestra which includes some of the best high school orchestral players from the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Daniel is an avid follower of fútbol (or soccer) and spends much of his free watching both international and club matches. He, his wife, Catherine, and their cat, Stormy, are big fans of FC Barcelona.

5:00 PM – Visual Artist

Janet Densmore graduated cum laude with a degree in Environmental Design from LSU, the artist completed independent studies in video and 16mm film, then launched an underground theatre space in New England for drama, happenings, and video performance works. Her documentaries found diverse audiences from CBS' "60 Minutes" to the Museum of Modern Art NYC. One of 12 Americans to be screened at the Worldwide Video Festival, J. G. Densmore also earned recognition twice at Sundance Independent Film Institute for screenplays. She was awarded 1st place for non-fiction by the Deep South Writer's Association, was admitted into the Writer's Guild of America-East, has been published in national and international journals, and worked as a writer/producer for network and foreign television. She continues to create original stories, poetry, videos, and fine art. Her paintings are on display as a longtime member of Gallery 220, Bay St. Louis, the artist also accepts portrait commissions through Gallery 220 Bay St. Louis and Guy Lyman Fine Art New Orleans.

Pass High graduates Class of 2018

BY HEIDI BYRD

On Friday, May 18, Pass Christian High School's legendary class of 2018 walked across the stage of a school that has been equal parts home and hope for four years. This class of 150 concluded their secondary schooling and commenced their post-secondary goals. At the helm of this alacritous class were two indelible scholars whose tireless dedication to academia, athleticism, and altruism were recognized.

Christina Larson has been leading her classmates since she entered high school, winning highest average awards in every core content class from her freshman year through her senior year, so it is no surprise that she was the Valedictorian of her student body. She is the daughter of Thomas Larson and Rebecca Montgomery. After attending Coast Episcopal School, Pass Christian Middle School, and Pass Christian High School, she is graduating as Valedictorian of her PCHS class.

Throughout high school, Christina won thirty-six highest average awards and was continually on Superintendent's Honor Roll. She also is a National Merit Finalist and a four-time Gold Level Presidential Service Award winner.

After having been accepted to twenty-one colleges and receiving over 1.4 million dollars in scholarships, Christina will attend Spring Hill College in Mobile to study Biology and pursue a career as either an environmental lawyer or a medical research doctor.

She has taken ballet for thirteen years, concluding her training at Coast Youth Ballet Academy this past weekend. Christina has also been a member of Wings Performing Arts and was part of over twenty theatrical productions on the Gulf Coast as an actor, dancer, singer, and/or choreographer. Recently, she played Belle in "Beauty and the Beast" and will be in two more productions before she leaves for college. Christina was an active member of clubs at school being a member of National Honor Society, Beta Club, Junior Civitan, SADD, and FCA. She also served as president of Mu Alpha Theta and captain of the Quiz Bowl team. Christina loved her time at Pass High and will miss everyone who helped her get to where she is now.

Anne Nguyen is no stranger to honors and distinctions as well. As a result, she was named Salutatorian of the class of 2018.

On her path to this outstanding accolade, she has served on a myriad of school clubs and committees while spending countless hours after school, volunteering her time to help young students. Anne is the daughter of Timmy and Mimi Nguyen. Throughout high school, she has been active and involved in National Honor Society (treasurer), Beta Club, Mu Alpha Theta (vice president), Junior Civitan, Student Council, and Interact. After school she also volunteered at the LAD Project, a nonprofit tutoring program named for Laura A. Dedeaux, where she helped students from Pass Christian and Delisle.

These 150 students are well-known at Pass High. Though we are reluctant to see them graduate, it is only fair that we share them with the rest of the world. All the best, Class of 2018. You've made us proud!

Research reveals that people are more absorbed and attentive when they read newspaper content.

No matter how The Sea Coast Echo® captures a reader's attention, we are remarkably successful at keeping it. An NRS survey says newspaper readers are more relaxed than TV viewers and radio listeners and less likely to be multi-screening. In fact, the 36 million who pick up a paper spend over an hour reading and don't multi-screen at all. Nothing works like The Echo works.
